Young People from Northern Lima and Callao Become Electricians

IST New Pachacútec's admission test will be held on 20 February.

Lima, 3 February 2016 – Technological Institute Nuevo Pachacútec invites young people from Northern Lima and Callao to take the admission test to become Professional Technicians in Electricity and have the opportunity to perform paid internships in different companies of the electricity sector.

Electricity is a career promoted by Enel Distribución Perú and Enel Group companies in Peru. The program started in 2006; ever since, 11 classes and 174 students have graduated, 97% of which are currently working.

In addition to granting a degree on behalf of the Peruvian Government, IST Nuevo Pachacútec offers the benefits of any other higher quality education centre:

1. Scholarships
2. Student fare cards
3. Library services
4. Computer lab
5. Cultural and sports activities

Inscriptions are open. The admission test will be held on 20 February at the headquarters of the Institute, located in Ventanilla. Those interested can obtain further information by calling 304-0939 or sending an email to informes@fundacionpachacutec.org.
